NOTA VERY SERIOUS MATTER

Omission in the Tariff Bill That Has Raised the Question of Its Legality.

What Secretary Windom and Others Say About the Tobacco Provision-Mr. Roosevelt and Political Assessments-Cleveland's Health.

WILL NOT HEED THEIR PROTESTS. Secretary Windom Will Enforce the Tariff

Law Notwithstanding Bourbon Howls. WASHINGTON, Oct. 23, Secretary Windom said this morning that he knew nothing officially about the protests against the legality of the McKinley tariff bill. "I do not," he said, "regard it as the province of an executive officer to question the constitutionality of the acts of Congress. It is for him to enforce the law as he finds it, and not to determine questions affecting its legality. I am, therefore, executing the McKinley act as I find it approved by the President of the United States, and certified as correct by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and I shall continue to do so unless a competent legal tribunal, such as the Supreme Court, decides that the law is unconstitutional. It is not for me to question the validity of any of the signatures to the bill as enrolled, neither is it for me to determine whether the bill signed by the President did or did not in fact pass the lower house, much less is it for me to determine whether the omission of the tobacco drawback section or any other provision of the bill invalidates the law as a whole. As I understand it, the act of Oct. 1, 1890, is the law of the land. My duty, therefore, is plain, and I shall execute its provisions to the best of my ability. Its constitutionality is a question for the courts, and until they decide against it I shall be governed by it as it stands."

Attorney-general Miller positively declined to discuss the question in any of its bearings, saying that it would be manifest-ly improper for him to do so unless it cameto him in an official way.

Mr. Mason, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who is specially charged with the execution of the tobacco provisions of the law, confined his remarks in regard to the alleged illegality of the law to the following statement: "I will obey the law as certi-fied by the Secretary of State. It is not for me to say whether or not the omission of the tobacco provision vitiates the tariff. Being merely an executive officer of the government, I must enforce it as I find it. Any how the tobacco schedule does not take effect until Jan. 1, so that if Congress desires to refund the 2 cents a pound on all tobacco on hand when the law takes effect, it has ample time to legislate to that end.' No alarm whatever is felt here among the friends of the McKinley bill as to the legality of its enactment. The precedents of unnumbered years, an old and experienced employe of the House said to-day, leaves no doubt than an error, whether of ommission or commission in the enrollment of a bill passed by Congress does not viti-ate any part of the measure except that part to which the error relates. Errors of some kind occurred, he said, at every session of Congress in at least one or more important bills, and to hold that the omission or insertion of any paragraph, word or punctuation mark, invalidates, not only the part of the bill to which the error is relevant, but the entire measure, would establish chaos in the affairs of the government, and compel Congress to remain constantly in session to correct, immediately on discovery, errors in the bills signed by the President, in order that the operations of the government might be carried on. It is safe to say, he added, that an error occurs in at least one appropriation bill during each Congress, and yet there has never been any doubt entertained by the accounting officers of the government or by any one else as to the validity of all appropriations except the particular one affected by such errof. In the enrollment of the tariff act of 1883 a comma was improperly used in the "fruit-plant" paragraph, and the manifest intention of Congress thereby defeated, to the great loss of the customs revenues; but there was ro question as to the validity of the other provisions of the law when it was passed upon by the Supreme Court. During the very last session of Congress au error was made in the enrollment of the river and harbor appropriation bill by the omission of two ciphers in the amount appropriated for the improvement of the Illinois river, so that $1,000 instead of $100,-000 was appropriated. A week or more after the bill became a law the error was discovered and Congress promptly passed a joint resolution to correct it. "The fact," he continued, "that in this joint resolution, as in numerous others passed for the correction of similar errors, Congress enacted no pro-vision to give legal effect to the remainder of the bill, shows conclusively that in the opinion of the legislative branch of the NEW YORK, Oct. 23 .- The New York Evening Post has the following from its Washington correspondent: "Concerning the alleged invalidity of the tariff bill, Capt. McGregor, chief of the customs division, recalls in a general way a somewhat similar case that arose under the wool act of 1867, which might throw a side light on the subject. As nearly as he could remember the circumstances, a Boston importer re-ceived a cargo of wool, which arrived on Sunday, the 3d of March, 1867. The tariff act bore the date of the 2d of March; but Congress had extended the session of the 2d over to the 4th, so that, as a matter of fact, the bill had not been signed till about noon on the 4th of March. The question at once arose whether this cargo should pay duty at the old rate, as the bill had actually not been signed till after its arrival, or the new rate. Following the legal fiction of the date of the act, the case was carried into court, which consented to go behind the public record, and take the testimony of President Johnson himself as to when the act was signed. A similar question will, of course, come up in connection with the McKinley bill. The copy of the act which went to the President and was signed by him certainly bore the signatures of the presiding officers of the two Houses of Congress certifying to its correctness. It must now be settled whether it be lawful to go behind this certification and ascertain what was really the bill passed by the two Houses.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS. Mr. Roosevelt Cites the Law as It Concerns

Government Employes. WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 .- In reference to the alleged activity of the political associations, especially in the matter of raising campaign funds among the government employes in Washington, Civil-service Commissioner Roosevelt to-day said that the commission would pursue the same course it did last year. "In former years." he continued, "these assessments were levied openly; now they are levied in secret and by stealth, if at all. There is not the slightest necessity for any clerk to pay anything now, unless he or she wishes to. We are sure that no Cabinet officer would permit a man to be molested for refusing to contribute to a campaign fund; it would be a direct breach of the law to permit any one to be molested for such a cause. The threat by irresponsible outsiders to black-list men refusing to contribute is a the government service dare, or, in my stringent means by arresting a good many opinion desires, to try to put such a threat into execution. Any government employe who is directly or indirectly concerned in soliciting or receiving money for campaign purposes from any other government employe, whether he does soon his own account or through a club or association which acts as his agent, renders himself liable to prosecution, and whenever we get any evidence against any such offender, we will immediately lay his case before the proper authorities. No government employe need pay a cent unless he wishes to, and we will welcome information from any one as to any effort being made, no matter how indirectly, to force him to subscribe for political purposes. We would also caution the government employes who wish to make contributions to be careful to keep in mind Section 14 of the civil-service act,

Section 14-That no officer, clerk or other person in the service of the United States shall, directly or inducetly, give or hand over to any other officer, cork or person in the service of the United States, or to any Senator or member of the House of Representatives or Territorial Delegate any money or other valuable things on account of or to be applied to the promotion of any political object whatever.

The penalty for any violation of the sections of this act which deal with soliciting, receiving or giving contributions are fine and imprisonment.

"NEVER FELT BETTER."

Ex-President Cleveland Assures His Friends He Is Not a Corpse, as Reported. WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 .- A rumor was current here this morning that ex-President Cleveland had died suddenly-some said in New York: others in Washington. Upon investigation it appeared that there was no basis for the story, and that the ex-President had arrived in Washington, was quartered at the Arlington Hotel, and was looking as well as usual. When the story was called to his attention, he said: "You may tell my friends that I have never felt better in my life than I do at this time." Mr. Cleveland came to Washington to argue a case before the Supreme Court, and was accompanied by Messrs. H. Gill, of New York, and R. De Gray, of New Orleans, who are presumably interested in the case. The three gentlemen were in private consultation in a room in the hotel all morning, and access was denied to callers. The case was set down for hearing to-day, but it cannot be reached before Monday, but it cannot be reached before sich day, except by arrangement with counsel representing a preceding case. It is known as the New Orleans drainage case, and Mr. Cleveland appears as counsel for James Wallace Peake et al. It is a suit in equity for an accounting, charging the City of New Orleans, as trustee of the drainage fund, with misappropriation. Besides the appellants proper, the British firm of Crossley & Co. desire to be heard before the garding Rates on Surgical Chairs. WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—To-day the Interstate-commerce Commission announced its decision in the case of the Harvard Company, of Canton, O., complainant, against the Pennsylvania Company and eleven other railway companies composing the Trunk-line Association, defendants. This case involves the rates on surgical chairs, and the decision was in favor of the Harvard Company. The opinion was rendered by Bragg, commissioner. The order of the commission is that the present rate be reduced on surgical chairs in less than car-loads from double first class to first class, or a reduction of about one-half in the rate. This was what the rate was formerly for a long period of time, and until recently, when it was advanced to double tirst class.

Our Exports and Imports.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. - The Treasury Department's monthly statement of foreign commerce places the value of merchandise imports during September past at $75,915, 796, against $53,685,848 during September, 1889. Merchandise exports from the United States during September past were valued at $68,677,459, against $64,996,083 during September, 1889. Imports for the past twelve months ended Sept. 30 past, were valued at $813,457,714, and exports aggregated in value 860, 131, 458.

The Second Comptroller of the Treasury, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, shows that 47,088 accounts, claims and cases were settled in that office during the last fiscal year, involving the sum of $168,135,475. He says his clerical force is insufficient, and that unless it is increased the work of the office will remain behind. From the annual report of the Court of Claims, submitted to the Attorney-general, it appears that the aggregate number of suits commenced against the government in that court and pending is about fourteen thousand, and that the war claims alone now pending number eight thousand, involving an estimated aggregate sum of The remains of the late Alfred B. Mullett were taken to the Baltimore & Ohio station this afternoon, and the train bearing them, the members of the family and the Masonic escort, left Washington for Cincin-nati at 3:15 o'clock. Funeral services were held at his late residence at 1 o'clock, and notwithstanding the disagreeable weather the house was filled with relatives and friends of the dead man.

DISCONTENTED REDMEN.

An Uneasy Feeling, Augmented by the Messiah Craze, That May Lead to Trouble.

Kansas City, Oct. 23 .- Thomas Knight, geological engineer of the Rock Island railway, has been for some months past in the Indian Territory making a geological survey of that country which is to be traversed by the Rock Island's extension. He returned to-day, and in an interview said that an alarming feeling of discontent exists among the Indians of the Territory, "There is undoubtedly a very uneasy feeling among them." he said, "with respect to the occupation of their lands by the white settlers. This has always been more or less the case, but of late their discontent is assuming a more definite and dangerous shape. By some distortion of the Christian doctrine the tribes appear to be impressed with the idea that an Indian Christ is shortly to come among them, and by his inspired leadership lead them in an irresistible crusade against the whites. One Indian in Wyoming has already assumed the Messiahship, and will visit the section shortly. It is difficult to put the hallucination of this into a business-like shape, for they guard it with extreme secretiveness. Some few white men have been taken into their confidence, and expect in some way to serve their own selfish ends by joining them. These white men have dropped remarks that convince me that preparations are being made for some serious movement. Then I have learned that such is the case by the new songs of the Indians that tell of coming war and victory. For months past there has been passing among the tribes various tokens and signs that mean discontent and secret plotting. There appears to be a gravity in the situation which ought not to be overlooked. To just what extent the Indians are preparing for war, if war it is to be, I do not know. I believe, however, that a willingness to part with their lands has been dictated by the desire to purchase the accourrements of war with the money received from the sale of their reservations."

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 23 .- Over a thousand civilized Indians from the Crow Creek and Yankton agencies passed through here yes-terday returning from Standing Rock, where they went some time since, principally to try to persuade their more bar-barous brethren that there was nothing in the coming of an Indian Messiah. They report that the excitement still continues. though abating somewhat, for the reason leaders in the craze.

Salvia was used in profusion for decorations and each lady of the entertaining section wore a bouquet of chrysan-themums and feathery clematis. The display of Miss Hill's water-colors called for many expressions of admiration, both for the subjects chosen and their skillful treatment. The few remaining articles of fancy work will be at Mrs. Severin's to-day, so that any who desire to purchase may do so.

Mrs. S. M. Shepard gave a large reception yesterday afternoon at her home on North Alabama street to introduce her daughter, Miss Shepard, The house was very pretty with its embellishment of roses and nasturtiums in handsome bowls and profusion of bunches of autumn leaves adorning the walls. The ladies assisting were Mrs. H R. Allen, Mrs. Charles Martindale, Miss Graydon, Miss Allen, Miss Foster, Miss Nellie Allen and the Misses Shepard. Carnations were the favors for each guest, and the company included many ladies prominent in church and social circles.

Mrs. Edward L. McKee's handsome home on North Tennessee street was the scene yesterday of a delightful company, given in honor of Mrs. J. R. McKee, all the guests being friends of the latter. Added to the tasteful furnishings of the house were roses and crysanthemums, the latter in tall plants filling odd niches here and there. A few palms also graced the rooms, and fairy lamps and candles lent a mellow glow.

Mrs. J. R. McKee wore a pretty costume of cherry-red silk combined with black lace. Assisting in the entertainment were Mrs.
John Cleland, Mrs. G. G. Tanner, Mrs. Harold Hibben, Mrs. A. M. Ogle, Mrs. J. N.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE-"LITTLE LORD FAUNT-LEROY.

Tommy Russell's absence from the cast of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is scarcely missed, so cleverly does Gertie Homan play the part of Cedric. This talented little child is the central figure of a performance which is quite as good as that given by the original company in New York, and last night she walked into the affections of the audience at the Grand Opera-house as rapidly as she did into the old earl's heart. The play has lost none of its charm and is admirably presented. Frank Aiken's characterization of the Earl of Dorrin court is well remembered by thousands who saw the piece here last year. It is excellently taken. Rossell Bassett gives a better portrayal of the honest old grocer, Hobbs, than has been given hereto-fore. He invests the part with additional interest. As Mr. Havisham James G. Peakes is capital. Miss Radcliffe has a sweet voice and is altogether the ideal mother of the little lord, while Miss Woodthorpe plays the adventuress. Minna, very well. The minor parts are well sustained and the stage settings exceptionally hand-some. To-night Georgie Cooper will appear as Lord Fauntleroy. She is the smallest child who ever essayed the role, and is said to be very bright and pretty. At the mati-nee to-morrow Gertie Homan appears again in the title role. The Williams & Orr Meteors will close a very successful engagement at the Park Theater to-morrow night. The company is giving an excellent specialty show.

There will be only three more performances of "The County Fair" at English's. to-night and to-morrow afternoon and evening. The company will go from here to St. Louis. The united theater orchestras, under the direction of Professor Miller, will give a sacred concert at the Park Theater next Sunday night. The noted mesmerist, Prof. E. A. Kennedy, will be on the programme. also, and give exhibitions. There will be a change of bill at the tions. The stage show this week is giving satisfaction, and the freaks and other things on exhibition continue to attract attention, especially the marvelous feats of Hadz le Mahofode Cheriff.

The McCabe & Young Colored Minstrel Company, that will come to English's Monday and Tuesday nights, comprises twentyfive members, among whom are some very good comedians. It is the aim of the management to give a performance out of the usual line, and the press has spoken of the show as an entertaining one. The sale of seats for the engagement of J. K. Emmett and his company at the Grand the first half of the week, will begin at the box-office this morning. Since Mr. Emmett was here last season his play of "Uncle Joe, or Fritz in a Mad-house," has been somewhat changed. According to all accounts Emmett is singing in good voice and is as graceful and entertaining as ever.

CHURCH AND OTHER EVENTS. Interests of Baptist City Missions Reviewed

at a Conference. The lecture-room of the First Baptist Church was crowded last night, the occasion being a conference of the city missionary societies of the Baptist congregations of the city, every church being represented. The organization having charge of this work is known as the Board of Baptist City Missions, of which Rev. I. J. Conner is president, Dr. G. V. Woolen vice-president, M. A. Potter secretary, and A. A. Barnes treasurer. Rev. O. B. Charpie is employed by the board to devote his entire time to the work. Rev. W. F. Taylor presided at the meeting and verbal reports were received from R. H. Jones, W. H. Perkins, Mr. Charpie, Rev. C. H. McDonald, Dr. H. C. Martin, and Dr. E. C. Thomas. The only new mission established during the year is the one at University, Place, but all the missions have grown. Under Mr. Charpie, the membership and financial strength was reported to have about doubled: but was reported to have about doubled; but only two of the missions have church services, supported or aided by the board. The others are Sunday-schools, having a membership of four hundred in all.

Mr. Milburn's Proposition. Rev. Joseph A. Milburn, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and officers of the Union Railway Company have been consulting over a plan to privide religious services for railroad men and others who congregate on Sunday afternoons about the Union Station. Mr. Milburn proposes to preach each Sunday afternoon if the railroad officials will secure a room for the purpose.

Meridian-Street Church.

The annual pew-letting of Meridianstreet Church, to be held to-night, will be followed by a social. The collections in the church during the past conference year amounted to $12,726.34, of which $2,059.10 was for benevolent purposes. The total expenditure was $14,112.75, leaving a balance of $1,386.45. Improvements in the church property caused the deficit.

Events to Occur.

This evening at Roberts Park Church there will be an important session of the training-classes connected with the Indian-applis Sunday-school Association. The post-graduate class, the central junior and the central senior class, the latter including all the undergraduates of last year, are expected to be present. The three classes wil take up practice exercises on the Sunday school lesson, "Jesus in Gethsemane," after which the classes will separate to different rooms to pursue their respective normal lessons. Dr. Gilbert will have charge of the entire evening's work and make some important announcements pertaining to the future of the classes.

MEETINGS OF ORDERS.

The Phi Gamma Deltas Hear from Their Committees and Officers.

The Phi Gamma Deltas, on assembling for business yesterday morning, first installed the officers elected the day before. The various officers of the Grand Chapter, located at New York, were received, and new chapters were reported to have been established during the year at the universities of Minnesota and Tennessee, and at the Richmond (Va.) College. The chapters at Washington and Lee University, and the University of Virginia were revived. It was also stated in the report covering these details that a new catalogue is being prepared, with parts of it completed. The statistics of the fraternity showed forty active chapters, four hundred members in colleges and a total membership of six thousand The report of the treasurer was received and the editor of the Quarterly, the organ of the fraternity, reported that the period ical will be self-sustaining the coming year, though the rule requir every member to subscribe for it is ignored in certain quarters. Owing to the editor, Fred C. Howe, now pursuing a post-graduate course in Johns Hopkins University, the Quarterly will hereafter be issued from Baltimore. Resolutions were introduced to reduce the number in the Grand Chapter from eighteen to nine; to prohibit the initiation of honorary members and of students in preparatory department. These went over for consideration to-day.

The afternoon session was addressed by Dr. Wiles, assistant surgeon at the Central Hospital for the Insane, H. L. Houten and John Clark Ridpath. The committee on jewelry reported, recommending that John F. Newman, of New York; Wright, Kay & Co., of Detroit, and D. L. Auld, of Columbus, be the fraternity jewelers, and the action was concurred in. The deaths of six members during the year was reported, among them being Hon. Walter Howe, of New York. The convention will close to-night with a banquet, which Gen. Lew Wallace and Maurice Thompson have been invited to

Royal Arch Masons.

The Royal Arch Masons of the State met vesterday morning, and, after hearing the usual reports, granted a charter for a chapter at Attica. The newly-elected officers were installed and the Grand Chapter adjourned. The next Masonic grand body to meet in this city will be the Scottish Rite Masons, on Nov. 18.

Death from Pyæmia. Coroner Wagner was called to St. Vincent's Hospital Wednesday night to take the ante-mortem statement of a young woman dying from pyamia, the result of attempted criminal practice. As the coroner entered the room the girl died, without having given her name or residence. The hospital authorities say the girl was brought to the institution by a woman claiming to be her sister, but she disappeared, leaving no trace of the identity of herself or the alleged sister.

A somewhat painful problem presents it-self in connection with the death of the late Associate Justice Miller, as to what is tobe-come of his widow. She has no son to support her. There are two married daughters— one widowed and herself without adequate means of support. It is stated as a positive fact by those in a position to know whereof they speak that the wife of the great jurist, Abraham Lincoln's friend, will either have to keep a boarding house, or rent or sell her homestead to make a living. Justice Miller left no other property of any amount except his house on Massachusetts amount except his house on Massachusetts avenue. He stated to the writer some time ago in friendly and half jocular conversation that by simply disclosing to some confidential agent the possible purport of forthcoming decisions of the court he could have realized millions. At the time he made this remark he was carrying on his knee a book, locked with a patent lock, to which he alone had the key. This book, he said, contained the views of the court on the leading questions before them, so far the leading questions before them, so far as they had discussed them. Among the cases then pending was the Bell telephone case. That was mentioned in the conversation. Justice Miller remarked that no opinion had yet been prepared in the matter, and none would probably be rendered until the court convened again after recess, which meant a delay of several months, but the views contained in this locked book indicated what the decision of the court would probably be. Each judge, he said, had one of these books, which he keptlocked just as he did. The family of the late Chief Justice Waite and the family of Justice Woods are far from wealthy. It is getting to be a grave question whether the foremost Nation of the earth will permit the families of its Supreme Judges to become the families of its Supreme Judges to become boarding-house keepers on the death of the head of the family, or whether they will raise the salaries or provide for a contingency sufficient to remove this national humiliation. New York city pays its district attorney $1,500 a year more than is received by the Chief Justice of the United States and $2,000 a year more than is received by the associate justices. The Supreme Court judges have entailed upon them, by the necessities of their position, social obligations which absorb at least half their salaries in the way of official hospitality.

MILLS VS. MILLS.

Off the Stump He Is an Optimist and on It a Calamity Shrieker.

San Francisco Chronicle. The great apostle of free trade has been making such a donkey of himself recently that the New York Sun and other Democratic papers are demanding that he be called off the stump before he does the party an irreparable injury. He has recently been delivering political speeches throughout the West at $200 a day, and was so employed during the time that he should have been doing his duty in Congress. But as he has been exposing the utter absurdity of the Democratic free-trade position to all of his hearers the Republicans will readily pardon his absence. Among other brilliant exploits he has indulged in the dangerous practice of saying two different things in one day. In the morning a Milwaukee paper-Democraticpublished an interview with him, and in the evening the Texas statesman delivered a speech at La Crosse. The Republican and Leader picked him up neatly and showed how utterly unreliable he was by printing extracts from interview and speech side by side. Here they are: From the Interview. From the Speech. I am pleased to note This country is on the he evidence of prosper-verge of ruin, my felity that I noted on every low-citizens. Seattle Press. A campaign based on facts is what the Republicans are now engaged in, and all the juggling of our shifty friends, the Democrats, will not be able to divert the attention of the people of this State from it. The people of Washington are right at their own dinner-table when it comes to talking about protecting their hops, their oats and their lumber.

Not long ago one of the general officers of the Pennsylvania railroad was asked what was the characteristic feature of the Pennsylvania management as applied to the physical maintenance of the road and the conduct of traffic. He replied that that which possibly has in the greatest degree contributed to the success of the Pennsyl-vania lines is their system of inspection, which applies to every branch of construc-tion and operation. This inspection is not espionage, for the Pennsylvania employes give evidence of the loyalty that is bred by manly treatment and nourished by self-respect. It is the systematized watchfulness necessary of operations that are at once minute and comprehensive and farreaching in their effects. Care is not only taken that track be excellent when laid, bridges solid when built, locomotives stanch when constructed and car gear reliable when placed in service, but by trained men rails and bridges, boilers, wheels and axles are continually being examined in the search of the slightest flaw. The working of every order governing transportation is traced throughout the ramification of its effects; reports from trainmen, station men and trackmen indicate daily the exact status of every transaction. This system of inspection and report places the guiding reins of the Pennsylvania system directly in the hands of the managing officers, permitting a concentration of auauthority and definiteness of control that is marvelous. The wisdom of this management will be apparent to any one who takes an Eastern trip and purchases his ticket via the Pennsylvania lines. Three trains leave the Union Passenger Station. Indianapolis, every day and run through with Pullman vestibule buffet cars to Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and New York. The Pennsylvania Special, with Pullman vestibule sleeping and dining cars, which leaves Indianapolis at 3 p. m. daily, and reaches New York at 3 p. m., Central time, the following day, is par excellence, and the two other trains present advantages that will be apparent to any one who will apply for information regarding them to H.
